"I have had the opportunity to receive training from Sharath in the field of problem solving skills and i had the best experience. i got to learn a lot of skills and techniques in problem solving. he has a very strong hold over the basics of all the concepts in quantitative aptitude. if you are looking to master the art of problem solving then Sharath is the one you should from"

— Naveen Hegde, Student, Visvesvaraya Technological University, worked indirectly for Sharath at QuanTech Origin

"If I have to describe Sharath is one word it would be "Commitment". He has a "never give up" attitude. A go-getter with focus and clear planning. He has an eye for detail which helps him in breaking complex issues into easily solvable modules. And with his Inter personal skills, he gets his team deliver with equal commitment that he shows. As a trainer, he has the ability of keeping his students engaged, entertained and get results with ease. It is my pleasure to be associated with him and I wish him all the very best for all his current/future assignments."

— Tarun Kohli, Freelance Trainer, QuanTech Origin, was with another company when working with Sharath at QuanTech Origin

"Sharath has a great analytical brain and is a shrewd operator. Focused on his Goal and is a workaholic. Sharath exhibits strong interpersonal skills and a unique capacity for empathy. These qualities most notably translate in his ability to motivate a team to care about its project and be invested in the project's success. Sharath is the go-to person for conflict resolution and problem solving; when confusion reigns, he steps in to diffuse tension and induce win-win solution. Though he's never one to draw attention to himself, Sharath's positive attitude and the respect others feel toward him are palpable."

— Bharat Thangaraj, Soft Skills Training Director, QuanTech Origin, reported to Sharath at QuanTech Origin

"Sharath as a colleague is a shining example of professionalism. I am associated with Quantech as a Soft Skills trainer and the first thing I noticed about Sharath is his attention to detail. He is focussed, hard-working and is upfront with his style of working. He is one of the few trainer's I have met who put's his heart and soul into his delivery and content. I have witnessed him tackle even the most stubborn students and get them to be broadminded. It is a real privelege to work with Sharath, and I look foward to a long standing association with Quantech."

— Shweta mathias, Soft Skills Trainer, Vedanta, worked directly with Sharath at QuanTech Origin

"I got an opportunity to work with Sharath for more than three and half years at IBM. He was a very sincere, responsible & meticulous person. It was always a pleasure working with him. Wish you all the best for your future."

— Pradeep Tiwari, Circuit Design , Layout design, IBM, worked directly with Sharath at IBM

"Here are the 10 ways Sharath helped the IBM Blue Expression Toastmasters' Club succeed. 1. Help each other to be right, not wrong. Thru his mentoring and great evaluations Sharath believed that Education and motivation will not only help build the next generation of advanced Toastmasters, it will help them be 'right' in future situations. 2. Look for ways to make new ideas work, not for reasons they won't. New members bring fresh new ideas that merit consideration. Never to dismiss ideas but to spot the nugget of gold , give it a try and if it doesn't pan out, at least making all members feel important and heard. 3. Speak positively about each other and about your organization at every opportunity. Talking positively, representing the Club and making each advancement a reason to brag and wanting to share the excitement with others. 4. Help each other win, and take pride in each others' victories. Everyone in the club needs to help each other excel. Everyone has joined for personal growth, so be proud of each others' successes. Sharath knew, no one wins, unless everyone wins. 5. Compliment often. Praise goes an incredibly long way toward building confidence in communication and leadership. Compliment contributes to a more cohesive and confident team. Sharath always came to the lectern through a positive and motivational introduction. 6. Recognize that the customer is not an interruption to your work, but reason for it. Find ways to bring the new members both into the club and into the speaking schedule so they can immediately start realizing the benefits. 7. Realize that "being right" is irrelevant to good service; the customer's perception is what counts. Guests are golden and should be treated as such. 8. Maintain a positive mental outlook. Doing everything with enthusiasm and good humor; his attitude is contagious. 9. Sacrifice for the good of the team. Sharath always wanted to be the best and also get the best. 10. Have fun. An atmosphere with Sharath is fun and members and those public speaking errors gave members a chance to laugh with, not at the other members. Sharath helped build a culture where everyone accepted the team's goals and were willing to play their part to make them a reality."

— Dhruti Kapadia Krishnan, WW Market Segment Manager - Exceptional Web Experience, IBM, worked directly with Sharath at Blue Expression Toastmasters Club

"If you are looking for a young and vibrant leader...here he is.... He is one of the very few persons who has a blend of characteristics which makes him unique among others. My interaction with him during the Toastmaster journey has made me realize the potential that he has to become a fantastic Leader. very diligent in his Management, goes to a micro level of planning and ensures a very small activity has been taken care of. As the President of IBM Blue Expression Toastmaster Club, he has taken the club to the highest level that any one could have dreamt off. A meticulous planner, fantastic team player, a very good manager and more important has a very good attitude.. That is Sharath... All the best man.."

— Sravan Kumar T, Delivery Project Executive - IBM (MITS Project -Telcordia), IBM India Pvt. Ltd, worked directly with Sharath at Blue Expression Toastmasters Club

"It is really marvellous to be so talented and at the same time be so humble and that too at such a young age as Sharath Pandeshwar. His presentation skills match and excel than those with more than 20 years of experience in the industry. He is a hard worker, very truthful, and knows how to inspire people. He is very good at providing constructive criticism to those who look up to him. He has excelled in various roles I have seen him in, including the role of President, Blue Expressions Toastmasters club and the Nexus cricket tournament, the first of its kind in Bangalore. It will be my pleasure to work for him."

— Hrishikesh Kumar, Senior Developer, IBM, worked directly with Sharath at Blue Expression Toastmasters Club

"Sharath is a very dynamic and progressive leader. Under his presidency the Blue Expression Toastmasters Club, grew to new heights winning accolades in both communication and leadership. He works tirelessly towards the progress of the club and its members and has initiated and led many projects. There are leaders who share their vision and let others work. But Sharath does not hesitate to roll up his sleeves and put in the hard work himself. He is a great motivator and visionary and an asset to any team. I wish there were more like him and wish him all the very best for the future."

— Dr Vikram Venkateswaran, Market Segment Manager- Healthcare, Life Sciences, Retail and Consumer Products, IBM Global Business Services, worked directly with Sharath at Blue Expression Toastmasters Club

"Sharath is a thorough leader in making! I was amazed with his maturity at his young age. I worked with him in two terms he as VP PR and President of the Blue Expression Toastmasters Club (BETC). As President he lead and demonstrated what is the meaning of 'excellence' not just 'leadership'. His organizing skill till the last point of detail, worth emulating, I appreciate his problem solving & conflict resolution thought process that's very essential while leading a team towards a successful goal and outcome. I thoroughly enjoyed working with Sharath and wish him success and I am sure that he would definitely achieve great strides in near future!"

— Vittal Kumar A Dhage, Asia Pacific Energy Program Manager, IBM, worked with Sharath at Blue Expression Toastmasters Club

"Sharath, is a good team player. He is a fast learner. He took very less time in understanding the requirements and technologies involved. He did quality deliverables on-time."
